PREFACE.

In offering a book of this kind to the citizens of New York, — who have heretofore been obliged to consult the records, at the cost of much time and trouble, for the information herein compiled and printed — the Publisher has the pleasure of stating that the statistics have all been furnished from the Tax Receiver's Office, by W. A. Darling, Esq., Deputy Receiver of Taxes, and therefore may be relied on as being the exact amount of Taxes paid by citizens in 1850, whose property, real and personal, is valued at $17,500, and upwards.

The Publisher also takes this opportunity to remark, for the information of the public, that his principal object in issuing the Tax Book is to furnish the mercantile community with a book of reference, so much desired; and he assures them that it has been carefully revised by the records, and is correct and accurate in every particular.

It will be observed that a great portion of the City Tax is paid by incorporated companies; and it may not be improper to add that though the amount of Taxes paid is accurately furnished, it should not, in every case, be regarded as an exact index of the payer's fortune — as many of those here mentioned own large properties in Brooklyn, Williamsburg, Jersey City, and other places — but are, of course, taxed only for what they own here.

The Publisher intends to issue, next year, a more voluminous work, of the same character — giving, among other improvements, a list of all citizens taxed upon an amount much lower than $17,500; that sum now yields $200 to the City Treasury.

THE PUBLISHER.

New-York, May 1, 1851.
